

A refrigerator includes a fresh food section and a freezer section, wherein at least one of the fresh food section and freezer section include a door. The door includes an external surface and an internal surface, and a light mounted to the external surface, wherein the light is electrically coupled to a processor-free light fade-out circuit.